

PASSION FOR FREEDOM

Maria's Story

Maria's Story reads like a screenplay. This excerpt is from Chapter 4. Maria is age 22.

On March 19, 1944, eleven German tank divisions rolled into Hungary. Our status changed from "allied country" to "occupied Nazi Hungary." That autumn, the Nazis began removing Jews from Budapest. "Everyone is going." This was not exactly a surprise. Each day, they took groups of men and women from the yellow-star houses. Ultimately, 35,000 of us moved to camps.

When I protested that I had a baby sleeping upstairs, a Nazi said, "Bring the baby or leave it." My parents lived nearby, and I desperately hoped and prayed they would find him. With guns pointed right at us, I marched through Budapest with others from the surrounding yellow-star houses. They ordered about 2,500 of us to march toward Austria. Each day's march started at daybreak. I knew I would rather die than go on... Holding my friend's Eva's hand tightly, I dropped and crawled into the dark....All around us was silent. I had no idea what to do next....
